

Please allow Satellite Radio to mature free of unwarranted government harassment. Satellite Radio is the only service which still offers enough variety to meet our requests and "serve" us as customers. Do not take that away from the public. In my area, local radio has abandoned me, and my fellow radio listeners, in search of new market genres. If the local stations still want my business, they can sell their local weather and traffic reports to a Satellite provider which could then promote that option and encourage me to listen to advertisements from that local station as broadcast over the Satellite provider's system (which I will be listening to). Don't let lazy, although powerful, business owners stifle America's economy by hoarding market access.
